FROM THE DIRECTOR

Christina Woods

“Creating art together as a family is a great time for laughter and fun! With so many things pulling at family time, the art workshops help us connect through letting go of the distractions as we explore each other’s creative ideas and try something new. As an adult, I feel like I get to be a kid again, but also enjoy my child’s creativity.” Patricia Mahnke.

What will you do to add laughter and fun to your winter? For me, I will use the new season to explore an art class, take in new visual interpretations of our region provided by the many talented artists featured at DAI, and enjoy the embedded talents of our region. This winter we journey through the Laurentian Divide on the stories told by wood and landscape. The region’s Finnish Emigrant history will unveil the richness of shared cultural experiences such as bark, saunas, weaving and more. Duluth has never before been seen through its urban textures and fonts as revealed in David Short’s exhibition. Let Penny Perry’s memories ignite your imagination to reveal your own life stories with dimension. If hovering in space interests you, you will thoroughly enjoy the abstract rendering of simple forms by Tia Keoboungheng. I can’t wait! Join us for these exciting exhibitions, openings, and related classes. The details are found in this news magazine and online at www.duluthartstitute.org.

We hope you enjoy the diverse events and classes we have coming up. Our goal is to bring to you effective art experiences that open up a meaningful dialogue that connects us with one another. The DAI embraces the importance of serving as an incubator for ideas and creativity. We look forward to every human experience, the creatives that provide masterful visual art, and adding your voice to the experience of the Duluth Art Institute! See you soon.

Thank You!

Thank you to all who gave an end of year donation and also renewed your membership. We are grateful for your continued support of the visual arts. The DAI and our community recognize and understand the multitude of cultures many of us have come through as regional strength. We know we represent something unique that brings forth strong emergent voices that deepen open discussions about the interactions of race, culture, gender and the regional “Northland”. As a port city, mining region, international trade route, and tribal community, our cultural communities share a connection through items such as iron, wood, geology, and water. Effective arts programs open up a dialogue through which people grapple with the complexities of the human experience. It is here we exercise empathy and engage in conversation to relate to one another. Visual art is a language, and it is a language that connects everyday life, explores learning by trial and error, builds self-confidence and encourages self-expression. Every human experience is defined by personal stories. The creation of art gives our stories voice, mobility, and the power to connect with one another. The DAI is honored to share in the telling of so many beautiful stories. Thank you for your continued support!

EXHIBITIONS

Type13: David Short

Reception: Thurs., Jan. 11, 5 - 7 PM

Artist Talk: Wed., Jan. 31, 6 - 7 PM

On View: Jan. 11 - Feb. 25, 2018

DAI Morrison Gallery

David Short's practice involves interests in lettering, type, illustration, and graphic design. He was born and raised in Iowa where he studied graphic design, letterpress and printmaking at both Iowa State University and Savannah College of Art & Design. Currently Short is exploring Latin letterforms—their construction, perception, and meanings of both self and their surrounding environments. His solo exhibition at the Duluth Art Institute will feature the daily lettering/typographic explorations that were created and digitally photo-documented during the 2013 calendar year, as the first part of a three-year daily experiment. Referencing 365-sketches, the resulting exhibition creates an inviting and optimistic environment to engage the viewer in considering the complex modes of human communication by transference and consumption. The individual works of shapes/letterforms vary from being legible and abstract, in order to illustrate the inherent flux of language in adapting to suit our individual needs as the primary tool for human communication.

Art & Craft: Penny Perry

Reception: Thurs., Jan. 11, 5 - 7 PM

Artist Talk: Thurs., Feb. 8, 6 - 7 PM

On View: Jan. 11 - Feb. 25, 2018

DAI Steffi Gallery

Penny Perry is the youngest of four daughters that grew up on the family farm in Spooner, Wisconsin. Her life is blessed with creative, generous teachers and mentors, two and four-legged. She graduated UW-Superior with a degree in Theater & Art and for the past thirty-seven years has owned/operated the family business Perry Framing & Stained Glass that still maintains its original location in Downtown Duluth. Perry works using a variety of mediums; ink on paper, acrylic paint on canvas, stained glass both painted and leaded, photography, and wood.

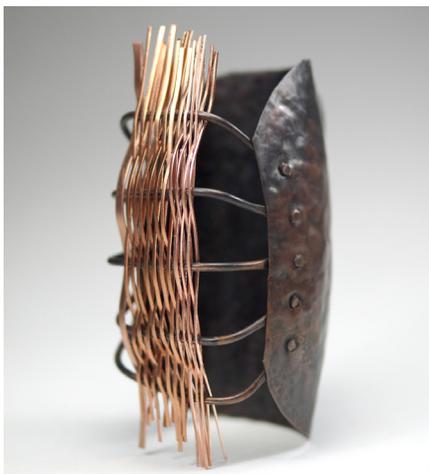

"I relish in details of texture, juxtaposition, layered depth of color. Refined shape of negative space. Tension and resonance between colors, notes, words...I trust my right hand-to-eye to draw what I see, and the left to paint what isn't seen."

100 Days: Tia Keoboungpheng

Reception & Artist Talk: Thurs., Jan 11, 5 - 8 PM

On View: Jan. 11 - Feb. 25, 2018

DAI Corridor

Tia Salmela Keoboungpheng, co-founder and designer at Silver Cocoon jewelry captures a day-by-day account of her metal explorations. At the end of each work day, over the course of 100 days, Salmela Keoboungpheng allowed herself an hour to explore creatively in metal. 100 Days Exhibition captures her explorations, illustrating both the linear and hap-hazard process of creative ideas. Her commitment to a daily creative-flow practice reveals the impact of small actions accumulated over time – a viable practice for maintaining creativity amidst the realities of working as a professional artist.

EXHIBITIONS

Dana Fritz

Reception: Thurs., March 8, 5 - 7 PM
On View: March 8 - April 29, 2018
DAI Morrison Gallery

The photographs in the series Terraria Gigantica: the World Under Glass frame the world's largest enclosed landscapes as possible impossibilities: Biosphere 2's ocean in the Arizona desert, the Henry Doorly Zoo's desert in the Great Plains of Nebraska, and Eden Project's tropical rain forest in notoriously gray and cool Cornwall, England. These vivaria are enclosed environments where plants are grown amidst carefully constructed representations of the natural world to entertain visiting tourists. At the same time, however, they support scientific observation and research on the plants and animals housed under these 'natural conditions' that require human control of temperature, humidity, irrigation, insects, and weeds to cultivate otherwise impossible environments and species. Taken together, these architectural and engineering marvels stand as working symbols of our current and complex relationship with the non-human world.

The Cut Worm Forgives the Plow: Russell Prather

Reception: Thurs., March 8, 5 - 7 PM
On View: March 8 - April 29, 2018
DAI Steffl Gallery

Russell Prather earned first place in the 2016 Arrowhead Biennial and creates forms from ordinary objects that change radically depending on the viewers line of sight. Layering paper-thin polyester film painted with dots, lines and markings in acrylic medium, Prather's work is sequential and reads like pages in a book – infusing his study and teaching of literature into his sculptures. Fulbright scholar and English professor at Northern Michigan University, Prather specializes in British literary and visual culture of the eighteenth through early twentieth centuries and is inspired by the poetry and designs of William Blake.

Territory: Emerging Photographers 2017

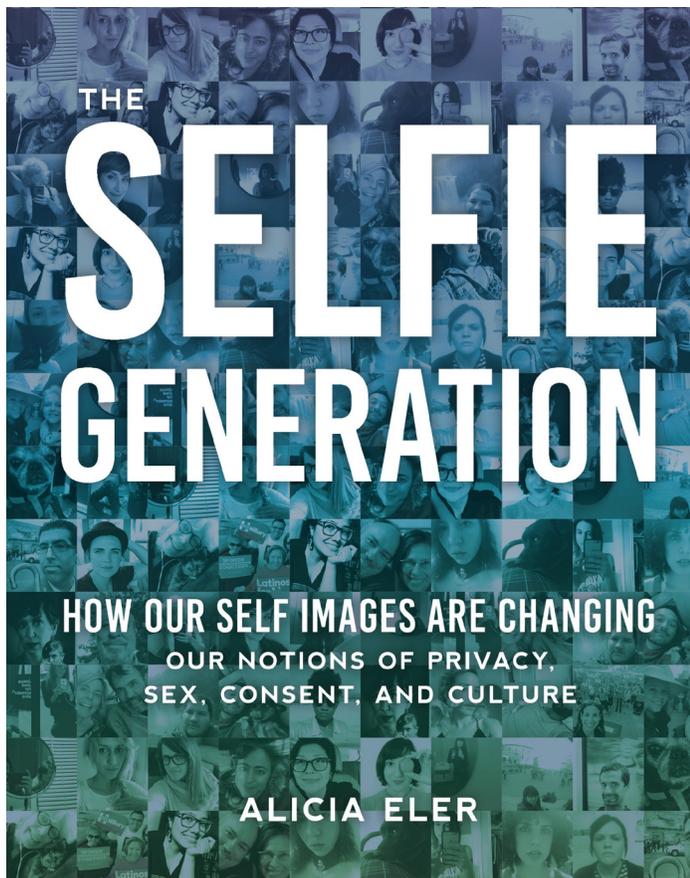

Reception & Artist Talk: Thurs., March 8, 5 - 7 PM

On View: March 8 - April 29, 2018

DAI Corridor

When the very first issue of Aperture magazine was published in 1952, the art critic Nancy Newhall wrote that “the old literacy of words is dying and a new literacy of images is being born. Perhaps the printed page will disappear and even our records will be kept in images and sounds”. The statement seems all the more prescient over sixty years later, especially given the ubiquity of smart phones, social media photo apps, emojis, and selfies. Why add images to an already saturated landscape? The student photographers of the 2017 emerging photography exhibition are creating images because of a compulsion and passion, because the image is how they explore their world and make sense of their reality. Weather plunging into the macro world of fungi, searching for the punctum moment of adventure sports, mining the subconscious for motivation and connection, disrupting digital data, or molding female forms from garbage waste, the records kept in this show are ones of curiosity and experimentation, imagination and skill.

Emerging photographers are Riley Loew, Haley Pehrson, Wilson Johnson, Chris Wodicka, Joanna Harms, and Krista Mathes.

Welcoming New Staff: Christina Woods & Jason Pearson

The Duluth Art Institute has appointed Christina Woods as Interim Executive Director and Jason Pearson as Curator. There will be an event to meet and greet new staff on January 29, at our Lincoln Building. Please watch our website for more information.

Jason Pearson

I am incredibly fortunate and thrilled to begin the next chapter of my life as incoming Curator at the Duluth Art Institute. Collectively I bring eighteen years of experience as a curator, visual artist, and educator to the position. My mission is a commitment to grow our programs, invest in the region's creative class, and invigorate outreach efforts as DAI continues to be our region's platform for contemporary art experiences. Cultural institutions have the responsibility to effectively adapt and be reflective of their diverse populations by serving as an incubator for ideas, meaningful dialogue, and innovation. I'm looking forward to the experience and challenge!

I was born and raised in SE Minnesota and spent most summers with my great-grandparents at their home on Prairie Lake, near Cloquet. The most vivid memory of the time spent with them was the summer before entering the fourth grade on a boat trip with grandpa, myself, and twin brother Jesse. From the dock, Jesse and I were instructed by grandma to keep an eye on 'dad' to make sure he didn't fall asleep while operating the boat in case his dentures might fall out and get dirty. It's funny to think about now, but of course not at the time, I thought we would never return. He was taking us to an island out on the lake to see a native burial site; I'll never forget the experience. Both of my great-grandparents were more active than I was at the time even in their nineties. They were like hybrid characters from any Ingmar Bergman film mixed with George Costanza's parents from Seinfeld; stoic, direct, and unaware of how hilarious they were.

After years of living on both coasts and everywhere in between, I've always thought Minnesota to be the most humbling and exotic place I've lived. When I'm not sleeping, I enjoy stimulating conversation, travel, embracing the unexpected, long walks on the beach, watching Seinfeld reruns, and my new hobby collecting duck decoys. Feel free to contact me; I'm looking forward to getting further acquainted with my new home and hearing from you.

MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

Erin Endsley

Erin Endsley is an active member and volunteer of the Duluth Fiber Handcrafters Guild and outdoor enthusiast, as well as a Board Member for the Duluth Art Institute. She primarily focuses on handweaving, but also dabbles in fiber sculpture, natural dyeing, felting, basketry, and beading. She has been a DAI member since 2014.

Why did you become a DAI member? I originally joined for the class discount. I stayed a member once I learned of all the other great opportunities DAI offers, such as the fiber studio, darkroom, and class offerings. I also like all of the great opportunities we provide for children to engage in art.

How has art impacted you or your community? Making and experiencing art does wonderful things for my brain and my soul, and I'm guessing that's true for others as well. Art is a great way for people to process the events in their life in a meaningful, positive way.

As an art enthusiast, What opportunities do you find at the DAI? I'm always inspired by the variety of art on display. The DAI also helps artists in the community connect with each other, and with the broader community. I especially like the learning opportunities available through DAI programming.

Masquerade Gala in Review

The 2017 Masquerade Gala and Annual Fundraiser was masterminded by DAI board members Erin Endsley, Robin Murphy, Stacie Renne, and Dr. Jennifer Webb, whose commitment ensured a big success!

The wonderful affair in the Moorish Room at Greysolon was enhanced by a jazz trio lead by UMD's Dean Kase, exotic floral arrangements by Sara Balmer, Barefoot Florista, and photos of our fabulous guests taken by Amanda Johnson. At this year's event, we celebrated the 110 anniversary of the DAI, 40 years of partnership with the Duluth Fiber Handcrafters Guild, and 25 years of the DAI Lincoln Park Ceramic Studio. We were also fortunate enough to have local artists host tables for dinner. These amazing artists were Kirsten Aune, Sarah Brokke Erickson, Carla Hamilton, Ashley Hise, Theresa Hornstein, Ann Klefstad, Kathy McTavish, Karen Owsley Nease, Mary Plaster, Karen Savage Blue, Adam Swanson, Tim White.

We would like to thank the attendees, artists, board members, sponsors, and volunteers who helped make this event such a success!

Make sure to mark your calendars for next year's Masquerade Gala, November 3, 2018!

DULUTH ART INSTITUTE

The mission of the Duluth Art Institute is to enrich daily life with dynamic, innovative visual arts programming that upholds excellence and promotes active community participation.

FOUNDED IN 1907, the Duluth Art Institute serves as a hub for creativity, new ideas, and community engagement through the visual arts. We welcome people of all ages, abilities, and skill levels. We deliver our mission through exhibitions, art making and learning opportunities. The Duluth Art Institute strives to deliver fresh, quality programming that nurtures and energizes all facets of the visual arts in the Twin Ports.

EXHIBITION PROGRAM

The Duluth Art Institute produces an average of 15 exhibitions every year that highlight regional talent as well as visiting artists. We celebrate craft traditions as well as contemporary voices in the visual arts displaying the work of emerging, mid-career, and established artists in diverse mediums. We offer enhancement programs alongside our exhibitions to provide arts audiences deeper engagement with artists and their work.

EDUCATION PROGRAM

We offer more than 50 arts workshops and classes for youth and adults throughout the year as well as outreach activities throughout the community. Our education program also maintains a ceramics studio with more than 35 renters, as well as a fiber studio and darkroom.

VISITOR INFORMATION

Galleries and offices are located on Level Four of the Duluth Depot - 506 West Michigan Street. While some Depot museums require paid admission, the DAI is always free to members. Galleries are accessible by wheelchair. The DAI Darkroom is on Level Two, and the Fiber Studio is on Level One. The DAI Ceramics Studio and multi-use classrooms are located at the Lincoln Center for Arts Education - 2229 W 2nd St (corner of N 23rd Ave W).

GALLERY HOURS

Open Daily 9AM-5PM
(Labor-Memorial Day)

PARKING

Metered parking for the Depot is available on city streets, and the Library/Depot Lot - 502 West Michigan Street – is open with a pay station that includes $1 bills, coins, and credit card options. A bus transit center is nearby with year-round access, and DAI is also accessible by the Port Town Trolley in summer months. For the Lincoln Center, a small parking lot is available on the West side of the building.
